Biography

Eliza Taylor specializes in high-stakes business litigation, representing plaintiffs and defendants. Her practice encompasses a broad range of matters, from business disputes and intellectual property cases to responding to third-party subpoenas issued in civil cases and government investigations. Eliza's experience spans multiple industries, with a noteworthy representation of retail clients, including a Fortune 20 big-box retailer and the leading franchisor of fresh fruit arrangements and food and gift items. She also has an active pro bono practice, such as representing incarcerated survivors of domestic abuse who are seeking parole.

Before joining the firm, she served as a law clerk to the Honorable Curtis L. Collier in the Eastern District of Tennessee.

Representative Matters

- Represented a corporate franchising company in an intellectual property dispute over the use of computer software, achieving summary judgment on trade secrets and copyright claims against the company.
- Successfully defended a corporate franchising company in a multi-million-dollar contractual dispute in a week-long arbitration.

- Achieved dismissal with prejudice and attorney's fee award on behalf of a Fortune 20 big-box retailer in tort action.
- Secured multi-million-dollar awards for damages and attorney's fees in breach-of-contract action in a bench trial in federal court.
- Guided an individual beneficiary in a multi-million-dollar trust dispute, ultimately achieving a favorable settlement for the beneficiary.
- Assisted one of the nation's top power companies in a billion-dollar dispute over a nuclear power plant project.
