Biography

Mollie Fiero represents clients in a wide range of commercial litigation matters, including business torts, LLC disputes, trade secrets claims, and consumer class actions. Mollie works closely with large corporate clients in defending business disputes, responding to third-party discovery requests, and managing inquiries from federal agencies and state governments. A specialist in complex litigation, Mollie has represented plaintiffs and defendants in high-stakes cases, including mass arbitrations and consumer class actions. Mollie also has a robust appellate practice involving appeals in state and federal courts, including at oral argument. Mollie's pro bono practice includes prosecuting civil rights actions on behalf of adults serving lengthy sentences for offenses committed as juveniles.

Before joining the firm, she clerked for Judge Leigh Martin May in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia.
